

Exercise 4: Fun with CSS

We're starting to realize that CSS is a lot more flexible than traditional HTML. This is especially true when it comes to formatting text. The best way to understand the different options for formatting text is to get really creative.

The paragraph below contains a title, image, by line, bolded text and a link. Using CSS create 3 different versions of this paragraph. Feel free to use any picture you want, but you can't change any of the other elements. Note: the text below can be highlighted and copied.
